FALSE ALBACORE LURES (from page 7)

Albie Snax

This is a long casting and long lasting plastic with unreal action, Bubble Gum stands out against a sea of bay anchovies. White has been a great striper bait as well. Also, using a casting egg can help spin fisherman deliver soft plastics and flies if need be.

Deadly Dick

The "classic" lure for funny fish. The smaller 1L or .85 oz version in silver or blue tape are the most popular. Must swap the poor quality treble for VMC treble or the VMC or Owner inline hooks.

Yozuri L-Jack Jig

Hard to come by the flat jig that is an excellent imitation for picky fish. Single quality treble. Orange and pink are top choices when imitating anchovies

At press time input from the UMass Dartmouth conference is still being processed, however, the bottom line is that BOEM will now have fishing industry and academia input on what should be included in a research plan before, during and after construction.

Now it is time to develop the plan and for the fishing community to reengage on wind farm development. Steve Medeiros, RISAA President; Rich Hittinger, 1st Vice President and I (Dave Monti, RISAA 2nd Vice President) are now highly enhanced with ocean wind farm initiatives. However more help is needed with upcoming research and public hearings so if ocean wind farms are something you might be interested in please let one of us know.

Electronic catch recording takes center stage

There was a lot of positive energy in the room last month at the Commercial Fisheries Center on the University of Rhode Island East Campus. Capt. Rick Bellavance, president of the Rhode Island Party & Charter Boat Association (RIPCBA), welcomed about a twenty charter fishing captains, Department of Environmental Management and NOAA staff members to the electronic recoding workshop.

Charter captains and government officials were there to learn how to record catch and effort electronically on computers using the SAFIS eTRIPS software developed by Harbor Light Software. (to page 39)
