

Members' Fishing Photos

Send us YOUR favorite fishing or boating photos!. Send by email to: Editor@RISAA.org

Member

DARIUSZ KOLODZIEJCZAK

with a 6 lb. tautog that he landed in May just south of the Jamestown Bridge. He was using green crabs for bait.

12 year old

Junior Member

LUKE LAMSON

with his first bluefin tuna that he he landed alone on June 24. In the photo is is dad Mark and brother Lee.

They were fishing at the Coinbra wreck off Long Island in Tin Lizzy.

Member

MICHAEL LYNCH

with a 32" striper on a Cotton Cordell pencil popper that he caught in May while fishing from shore in the bay.

Member

MICHAEL SHERIDAN

was a good day of fluke fishing on May 27. Best was a 27 inches.

CORAYER: All Downhill (from page 35)

Typically hauling out is an orderly affair until someone who overslept, races down the Escape Road to Dukes-of-Hazard-it through the lot just to be the first person headed out at three in the afternoon for a full day on the water.

"Hey, let's go! What the hell, I've been here for an hour!"

"Relax buddy, I'm going."

"Well you better be, you're in my way!"

"Have a nice day," the boater snickered.

"I will now that you're leaving, jerk!" Occasionally there are some semi-powerful words at the boat ramp, especially from safe confines of cockpits.

Cheaters will always trickle in, ignore boats waiting for their time in the chair, avoid eye contact, make loud, uninteresting chit chat, drop off a mate then power ahead to load up an overpriced Robalo while the rest shake their heads and say, "Come on man."

All in all, boat ramps are a place to come and go or, if you have a few free hours and some gas station coffee, a fine place to see people being courteous.

Pretty much.

It can take hours to do ten minutes worth of launching or hauling.

RISAA member Todd Corayer is a lifelong fisherman who lives not far from the Saugatucket River with his wife, who supports his fishing mainly to get him out of the house and a young son who regularly catches more fish than him.

His weekly outdoors column, "Fish Wrap," can be found at www.fishwrapwriter.com. He also writes for On The Water magazine.

READ

"FISH WRAP"

- Accurate Fishing Reports
- Interviews/Commentary
- Truthful-ish Fish Stories
- ... and the occasional lie

- Friday's Narragansett Times
- Coventry Courier
- East Greenwich Pendulum
- Kent County Daily Times
- N. Kingstown Standard Times
- Pawtucket Times
- Woonsocket Call